Pattinathar: A Selection

translated by Dr M.D. Jayabalan, M.A.,Ph.D.
Revised edition, Nov.2005

Epithalamium

You'd tell tongue-blasting lies, and earn earn a lot of wealth and money, wed some ungainly woman beget children as many as flying ants that off anthills spring incessantly.
You wouldn't know how to bring them up nor would you give them up.
You're caught in the world of illusion to suffer misery like the monkey which let down its leg in half-split-open wood and plucked the wedge that kept the split, you're caught, indeed, for e'er.

Occasion of the poem: It was sung at someone's wedding to which Pattinathar was invited to bless.

Poems on the cause of Renunciation

Was it to make me renounce my Wife-and- cause-of-
